“ I first met Bert in 2001 as I started on my quest to document the many descendants of our common ancestor, Ambrose Remali, the 1749 immigrant who settled in the Allentown area. At the time I had worked mainly on my direct ancestors who went to western PA in the early 1800s and changed the spelling slightly. Bert gladly shared with me his genealogical work and would be happy to know that I now have identified over 27,000 cousins of ours. I regret that I have not had the opportunity in the last several years to see Bert but I hope that perhaps his interest in family history will continue through his children. My sincere condolences to all who knew him. james.ramaley@gmail.com
