Dolores moved to Allentown, PA when she was young and worked in accounting at the Dixie Cup factory in Easton PA. While in Allentown at church, she met and later married William E Bower, Vice President of Weaver Fuels. They had a long happy marriage and shared many traveling adventures, many with her brother Tom and wife June or Bill's family. As a youth, Dolores won the Little Miss Uniontown Pageant circa 1940. She also competed in beauty contests and fashion show modeling in the Uniontown area. Dolores overcame many medical challenges in her life and always faced them head-on and won. She also had a knack for coming through in the clutch. Once when given a cognitive test by her doctor, she not only passed the test, but recited the Gettysburg Address at the end.

Special thanks to her wonderful neighbors Kevin and Jennifer Rodgers and sons for assisting Dolores for the past 25 years whether it was to carry Christmas decorations from the basement or retrieve a patio table umbrella that took flight to the roof. Many thanks to the amazing caregivers from: Right At Home, Lehigh Commons Assisted Living, and Serenity Hospice. They took great care of her, and she kept them laughing.

Arrangements for the burial will be private.

“ For two decades, my sons , my wife and I had the privilege of knowing and caring for Dolores, who became much more than just a neighbor—she was a dear part of our family. Though life took her loved ones in different directions, she always had a seat at our family table.. Dolores shared many Christmas and Thanksgiving dinners with us, filling our home with warmth and stories that we will always cherish. Her kindness, resilience, and strong spirit left a lasting impression on all who knew her. She will be deeply missed, but the memories we created together will remain forever in our hearts.
